CCMG INVITES YOU TO THE THURSDAY LECTURE SERIES

Media and Movement

A Study of ULFA (United Liberation Front of Assam) and Assamese Newspapers

Bhriгу Talukdar

Ph.D. scholar in Centre for Culture, Media & Governance, Jamia Millia Islamia, Delhi.

Abstract

The scholar analyses the relationship between a newspaper and social movement. The study of such relationship becomes all the more interesting and insightful in case of India, and that too in Assam which is a 'sub-national' terrain. The paper studies the relationship between social movement in Assam and its coverage in regional language newspapers. It offers an entry point to understand the dynamics between newspapers and social movements. It also provides us with a tool to analyse how the newspaper industry in a regional setting operates in certain different aspects and how does it become an actor in certain circumstances.
