

DR K.R. NARAYANAN CENTRE FOR DALIT AND MINORITIES STUDIES

B.R. AMBEDKAR MEMORIAL LECTURE SERIES

Candidate Nomination Processes in Indian Parties

By

Mr Adnan Farooqui

Department of Political Science

Jamia Millia Islamia

Venue: Reading Room, Dr K.R. Narayanan Centre for Dalit and Minorities Studies, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi

Time & Date: 2.30 PM, Thursday, 08 November 2012

The Topic: This paper examines a particular aspect of the internal dynamics of Indian parties, viz., the process of nominating candidates for the parliamentary elections to the lower house (Lok Sabha), which is directly elected from 543 single-member constituencies (districts) by the plurality rule (first-past-the-post) system.

The Speaker: Adnan Farooqui is assistant professor with the department of Political Science, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi. His primary areas of interests are electoral studies and political economy.